DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Henninger [US 5,805,045] in view of Soto et al. [US 6,222,437]

Henninger discloses a transformer including a foil winding [figures 1-2], the foil winding including an end portion [2] including one or more layers, at least one of the layers being divided to form a plurality of strips [3a-d], wherein at least one strip is folded [figures 2-4] and at least one other strip is folded over the at least one strip to form a stack portion [see figures 2-6], wherein the stack portion being extends from the transformer.

Henninger discloses the instant claimed invention except for the stack portion being secured to a mounting board.

Soto et al. discloses a transformer including a folded type winding having end portions [52, 54] secure to a PC board.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to secure the stack portion of Henninger to the PC board, as suggested by Soto et al., for the purpose of facilitating connection.

Claims 5-6 and 11-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Henninger in view of Soto et al. as applied to claims 16 and 22 above, and further in view of Kakehashi et al. [US 5,117,215].

Henninger in view of Soto et al. discloses the instant claimed invention except for a bobbin with a discontinuous flange with at least one section orthogonal to a main axis of the bobbin and at least one section parallel to the main axis of the bobbin.

Kakehashi et al. discloses a bobbin structure for an inductive device including a discontinuous flange with at least one section orthogonal to a main axis of the bobbin and at least one section parallel to the main axis of the bobbin [see figure 2].

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to use the bobbin/flange design of Kakehashi et al. in Henninger, as modified, for the purpose of supporting core structure.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-12 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 11-20 of U.S. Patent No. 6,642,830. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they are both claiming the same invention.
